ABOUT THIS SOURCE BOOK

The Cruise Lines International Association (CLIA) is pleased to present this guide as a reference tool for journalists and professional researchers. The 2011 Cruise Industry Source Book profiles CLIA’s 25 member cruise lines and contains general information about CLIA, its history and purpose.

Each cruise line profile features the names of company principals and spokespersons, with phone numbers and e-mail addresses. Also included are descriptions of each line’s history and philosophy, as well as the destinations served by each company.

The Source Book lists CLIA member-line ships in two ways: by individual company and by ship. In addition, it provides the names and phone numbers of key contacts at the other North American cruise industry associations – the Florida-Caribbean Cruise Association, the North West CruiseShip Association and the Alaska Cruise Association.

The information contained in this guide was provided by the cruise lines and the associations. We welcome your feedback and appreciate hearing your comments.

If you need additional information on CLIA, please contact Lanie Fagan, CLIA’s director of communications, at (754) 224-2202 or lfagan@cruising.org. Or, contact CLIA’s public relations agency, M. Silver Associates, at (212) 754-6500.
WHAT IS CLIA?

The nonprofit Cruise Lines International Association (CLIA) is North America’s largest cruise industry organization. CLIA represents the interests of 25 member lines and is engaged in travel agent training, research and marketing communications to promote the value and desirability of cruise vacations, and counts as members 16,000 North American travel agencies. CLIA also participates in the regulatory and policy development processes for the industry while supporting measures that foster a safe, secure and healthy cruise ship environment. In addition, CLIA features a structured Executive Partner program with important strategic cruise industry suppliers, shipyards, and ports.

“One Industry. One Voice.” Driven by continued growth in cruise vacations, the industry’s two longstanding and preeminent trade associations, New York-based Cruise Lines International Association (CLIA) and Washington, D.C.-based International Council of Cruise Lines (ICCL), in 2006 formed an expanded organization incorporating the existing functions of both organizations. The merged organization, which uses the CLIA name, relocated to Fort Lauderdale, Fla., in January 2007 while maintaining a satellite office in Washington, D.C.

CLIA carries out objectives and activities on behalf of the collective membership. Senior management from member lines comprise executive, managing and marketing committees, and also numerous committees involving the operation of the CLIA vessels, such as environmental, technical & regulatory, and the Cruise Ship Safety Forum, which provide guidance and support for the association and its cruise line and travel agency members.

CLIA is consistently rated the most professional and effective organization of its kind for its support of the travel agency community and for the quality of its sales training programs. CLIA’s training consists of classroom seminars, Internet-based courses and video training. The association’s most comprehensive training is its Cruise Counsellor Certification Program, which requires agents to successfully complete compulsory courses and exams, attend cruise conferences and conduct ship inspections, among other activities.

In addition to its training programs, CLIA conducts extensive research and engages in strategic public relations and promotional activities that advocate cruise vacations. CLIA’s extensive portfolio of research projects include a bi-annual Market Profile Study, which tracks changing cruise demographics and consumer trends; The Cruise Industry Overview, which covers growth statistics, market potential, vacation comparisons, cruise prospects, sources of business and North American port embarkations; executive reports covering passenger growth and capacity changes; and the annual North American Economic Study, which tracks and analyzes the cruise industry’s continued growth and contributions to the U.S. economy.

CLIA established a Travel Agent Advisory Board (TAAB) in 2004 to enhance its educational training, marketing support and travel industry representation services. TAAB members serve a two-year term and include professionals from virtually every type of cruise-selling operation, from independent home-based retailers to regional brick-and-mortar locations to online agencies.
To further facilitate greater communication between its member travel agents and cruise industry officials, CLIA sponsors an annual conference, cruise3sixty, that combines the best elements of a travel show with educational and professional development programming, plus hands-on technology training and one-on-one appointments with cruise-line officials.

PROFILE OF THE U.S. CRUISE INDUSTRY

The cruise industry is the fastest growing segment of the travel industry—achieving more than 2,100 percent growth since 1970, when an estimated 500,000 people took a cruise. Industry estimates are that 13.5 million people took a cruise vacation in 2009, with a total of 14.3 million passengers forecasted to sail in 2010.

But that’s not all. CLIA reports that the cruise industry’s total economic benefit to the U.S. economy was $35.1 billion in 2009. The cruise industry generated nearly 314,000 American jobs, and direct spending by cruise lines and passengers on U.S. goods and services exceeded $17 billion.

The cruise industry’s growth is also reflected in its expanding guest capacity. Nearly 40 new ships were built in the 1980s and during the 1990s, nearly 80 new ships debuted. By the end of 2010, over 100 new ships were introduced since 2000, with seven new vessels on the way for 2011.

This strong growth has fueled the continuing evolution of the cruise vacation experience. Over the years, cruise lines have expanded itineraries to include more diverse ports of call and convenient embarkation ports and have also introduced innovative onboard amenities and facilities, including cell phone access, Internet cafes and wireless fidelity (Wi-Fi) zones, rock-climbing walls, bowling alleys, surfing pools, multi-room villas, multiple themed restaurants and expansive spas, health and fitness facilities that easily rival land-based options.

The cruise industry’s commitment to adding new capacity is based on cruising’s tremendous growth potential. Because only approximately 20 percent of U.S. adults have ever taken a cruise vacation, there remains an enormous untapped market.

Cruise lines cater to a diverse demographic mix. Cruisers average 46 years of age, with above-average ($93,000) annual household income. Cruise vacations attract travelers from every state in the nation and from every province in Canada. The states producing the most cruise passengers are Florida, California, Texas, Massachusetts, New York, Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Illinois, Arizona and Georgia.

Ninety percent of all cruise vacations are booked through travel agents, and cruise sales account for more than half of all vacation sales among travel agents.
